Snow Update 4/23/2013 12:00 PM

The storm worked out pretty much as predicted. Snow accumulations were higher on grassy areas. There was some initial melting on hard surfaces, lowering the overall totals. Services are wrapping up at this hour. Since we were borderline on accumulation trigger points, if we have not serviced your site by now, it is because we did not believe we had reached the trigger point. We will have crews available all day. Please contact us if you require services. Cold weather may result in icy conditions today. Please report any dangerous conditions and we will address them immediately.

Thank you,
